EDMONTON, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 30, 1953

Accused In Waterways Homicide Is Charged With Manslaughter

At the trial taking place in Edmonton this week, in connection with the June 4 death of Theodore Bertsch at Waterways, the charge has been reduced from murder to manslaughter.

At the request of the crown, Charles Desjarlais will answer to charges of the lesser crime.

On Monday three witnesses testified to events leading up to the time of the fatal assault. George Glen Briggs of Edmonton, engineer with the NAR, testified that with Bertsch as his fireman, he arrived in Waterways, 280 miles north of Edmonton, about 6 a.m. June 4. He said that after sleeping for several hours he and Bertsch drove to McMurray, three miles north, and "had a few beers in the hotel."

The witness stated that he and Bertsch left the hotel about closing time and went to a place called "The Prairie," midway between McMurray and Waterways. Briggs said that Bertsch got into a taxi, and drove the rest of the way to Waterways. He added that the last time he saw Bertsch he appeared sober.

PAIR IN CAR

Joseph Haineault, Waterways, told the court that he was in the same taxi as Bertsch on the trip to Waterways. He said that Desjarlais was also in the cab. Questioned by defence counsel, Frank Dunne, Haineault said there seemed to be no quarrel between Bertsch and Desjarlais on the trip to Waterways.

He added that Bertsch appeared normal.

Peter Norman Malcolm, a Waterways taxi driver, said he picked Bertsch up at The Prairie about 10:30 p.m. "On that trip, Mr. Malcolm, was there anything to indicate that some of your passengers were mad at each other?" asked Mr. Dunne.

"No, nothing," replied the witness. He said he could recall no conversation between Bertsch and Desjarlais.

David Lester Brooks, Waterways, related how he and three companions met Bertsch in an alley near a cafe at Waterways about 10:30 p.m. He said that after talking to Bertsch awhile he and his friends continued up the alley.

He said he then "saw a ruckus down the alley and heard scuffling."

SAW FOUR RUN

Brooks told of going to the scene and finding Bertsch sprawled on his back. The witness said that after the "ruckus" he saw four men run from the scene, but because of darkness he said he did not recognize any of them.

To questions by Mr. Dunne, Brooks answered that Bertsch appeared unconscious and that there was blood flowing from his mouth.

Another witness of Waterways, Romeo Eymundson, said that while walking past the alley he heard a scuffle and saw three persons running from a man who was lying on the ground. Eymundson testified that he went over to the man and recognized him as Bertsch.

The witness said that after hearing a gurgling sound from Bertsch's throat he turned him over on his left side. Examination by the witness disclosed that Bertsch's pulse was "quite strong."

Dr. William A. MacDonald, of McMurray, who was called to examine Bertsch, said that he found the man in an alley, but that there was not trace of life on his arrival. He said that he attempted artificial respiration, but that there was no response.

The doctor said that only sign of injuries was a slight cut inside of the mouth.

The hearing is continuing.

Helicopter Lands Beside Cafe

LAC LA BICHE—People who happened to be downtown on Tuesday at noon last week were bug-eyed to see a transparent plastic bodied helicopter plane fly overhead, then gracefully land on the vacant lot between the NAR station and the Royal Cafe. The pilot and co-pilot were on survey work and when noon hour came decided to have dinner. And what better way than by landing right downtown in Lac la Biche and stopping in at the nearest cafe.

After dinner the boys returned to their machine and with overhead propellers whirling took off again for the "wide blue yonder." Some who had never seen a helicopter plane before were struck by the absence of wings and the open fuselage. The cabin of the plane is enclosed by a transparent plastic material.

On Thursday the helicopter was seen to return to Edmonton by way of Boyle and Newbrook, following the highway.

The total oil energy used in farming is about 750 million horsepower, which is more than that used by all other American industries.

Belzil Family, St. Paul, Win 1953 Master Farm Family Award

Modern crop rotation and livestock breeding practices make the Blue Hill Ranch one of the finest mixed farms in the St. Paul area. This is the home of the Ernest Belzil family, which has been selected as the 1953 Master Farm Family for the Northern Albertan division.

Located eight miles west of St. Paul, the Blue Hill Ranch comprises five quarter sections of land in a rich mixed farming area. Of this, the Belzils have about 700 acres sown to wheat, oats, barley and forage crops. In addition, there is a purebred herd of about 75 Herefords which is being raised to top standards through a long range breeding program.

Mr. Belzil is in equal partnership with his son Fernand, 29, who resides in a separate home on the farmstead.

Other children in the family include Euclid, 36, who is the assistant secretary of the St. Paul municipality; Aline, 37, now Mrs. J. O'Driscoll; the twins, Cecile (Mrs. Roy Macksymiuk) and Blanche Mrs. (Mrs. Nick Gurdy), 31; Mae, 26; who is a teletypist in Edmonton; and an adopted son George Beaudin, 17, who is in grade 11 in school.

Born in St. Jean de Dieu, Quebec, Mr. Belzil moved to Rhole Island with his parents in 1898 when he was 11 years old. The family later moved to New

Fire Brigade Plan Parade Next Week

LAC LA BICHE—A regular meeting of the Volunteer Fire Brigade was held on Wednesday, September 23, with a good attendance. The Brigade, assisted by the Forestry Branch, is making an all-out effort to make Fire Prevention Week a real success.

To start things off in good style a parade will be staged on Monday, October 5, with Marshall's in charge being J. Williams and E. Shanks. The parade is being sponsored by the brigade so as to impress on all local and district residents the necessity of fire prevention and how the co-operation of each and every one is vital.

The Brigade would like to impress on everyone the need to check all chimneys, stoves, furnaces and every means of heating facilities that may be in use, especially before the long winter days set in.

During Fire Prevention week members of the Brigade will make an effort to inspect business premises and private homes. All unnecessary newspapers and magazines and any other garbage should be disposed of, and not left around to accumulate as a fire hazard.

Remember! Fire feeds on careless weeds!

Members Only To Ride Fire Wagon

LAC LA BICHE—The Volunteer Fire Brigade would like to bring to the attention of the public that only members of the Fire Brigade are allowed to ride on the Fire Wagon at the sound of the alarm, or at any other time. Members do not like to sound big, and officious, but such is the ruling and they would be very happy if the people would abide by it.

Lac la Biche School Division

Only One School Left Without Teacher, Supervisor Or Van For Children

By T. W. PUE

Heart River School, in the Lac la Biche School Division, is the only school without a teacher or supervisor and where no arrangements have been made to transport children to any other classroom.

There are 51 teachers on the job, and 15 supervisors. Children at Sun View have no teacher or supervisor but they are being bussed to Wandering River School.

Mr. H. B. Chester, secretary of the School Division, stated last week that there is a marked increase in school population this year, but not all official reports are yet in and an accurate tabulation cannot yet be given. There has been less difficulty however, in getting qualified teachers and, although there are several more classrooms than last year, the Division has had to supply fewer schools with supervisors.

Three new rooms have been established, one each at Plamondon, Lac la Biche and Wandering River. This makes a net increase of two classrooms, because classes will not be held this year at Sun View.

At Lac la Biche School, Floyd W. McMillan heads a list of 13 teachers, as principal, and John Strembiski, formerly of Rich Lake, is vice-principal. New teachers are Miss Rita Peltier, Mrs. E. Uganetz and Mrs. A. A. Masteler. Students will also receive instructions from the following teachers who were on the staff last year: Paul Mulyk, Mike Choden, Sister Mary J. Fournel, Miss V. Walsh, Sister A. Blais, Mrs. E. P. Blair, Mrs. L. Tkachuk, Mrs. P. Hayduk.

In Plamondon the principal is Sister C. Langlois, who is assisted by four new teachers and three former members of the staff. New teachers are Sister Mary Joseph, Hector, Miss Ann Blonsky, Paul

Date Set For St. Catharine's Annual Bazaar

LAC LA BICHE—One of the important social events of the fall season in Lac la Biche is always the St. Catharine's Ladies' Fall Bazaar. This year the date has been set for Thursday, November 19. Mrs. J. B. Bouvier and Mrs. M. Maccagno, convenors of the bazaar, are hoping for another successful tea and sale and all ladies interested in helping are asked to contact either of these members.

Rev. Fr. McGrane announced that the Papal Charities collection has been completed and the proceeds sent in amounted to $41.00.

First Snow Reported In Northern District

LAC LA BICHE—First snow of the season fell in Lac la Biche on Tuesday of this week. While the weather outlook throughout the province was generally considered poor for harvest, with intermittent rain almost every day, only the northern districts reported snow.

Crops in the district are reported good, but farmers require two weeks of dry, warm weather to complete operations.

Will Add 25 More 'Phones To Lac la Biche Exchange

LAC LA BICHE—The telephone business has been booming in Lac la Biche ever since the Alberta Government Telephones established 24 hour service. Already the number of subscribers has reached 109 and several more have told Mrs. Calvert, Telephone Agent, that they will be ordering service soon.

The Switchboard will accommodate 25 more phones but the operators would prefer a small auxiliary board to set alongside the main panel. When the additional phones are added it will mean the operator will have to "reach" from her sitting position to the top of the board to service the new subscribers.

But it all adds up to a real appreciation by Lac la Biche residents for the greatly improved service. More phones in town mean the service is of more value and use to each subscriber. And it looks as though the present facilities may soon be outdated by the march of progress.

Grassland Hopes For District Nurse

GRASSLAND—Ladies of Grassland have been cleaning up the nurses home in expectation of a visit from Miss Fitzsimmons, superintendent of public health nurses.

It is to be hoped that this visit will result in the stationing of a nurse at Grassland once more. The present kind of service received here is not too satisfactory.

People coming ten miles or more from the country with a patient can never be sure whether they will find a nurse here or not. For about three months this district has been without the services of a nurse.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

King Christian of Denmark has been making a good-will tour through every hamlet in his little kingdom. In one village fully five hundred children waved flags and pelted him with flowers. "Where on earth do all these children come from?" laughed the King.
"Your Majesty," the local mayor assured him gravely, "We have been making preparations for this day for ten years!"

I sat next to him and then, knowing that he was contemplating a divorce the last time I had seen him, I said, "Oh, B—, did you ever get rid of that battleax?" "No," blasted a voice from across the room, "he didn't get rid of me! We're still married!"

Those Master Farmers

Once again, Hon. David A. Ure, Minister of Agriculture in the Alberta Provincial Government has drawn the spotlight on the important farming industry of Alberta. He has done this through the annual Master Farm Family awards, made this year to five new farm families appointed to this select list of Alberta farmers.

Much has been written and said on the radio, in the newspapers and at banquet speeches of the value of the Farm Family award plan. Nearly everyone is familiar with the system of making selection and awards. We join once again this year in congratulations to the new Master Farm Families, and to Mr. Ure and his colleagues in the Government for using this remarkable means of paying honor and tribute to our farmer families.

The families receiving this honor this week do so in two ways. They accept it for themselves, every member of the family included, for the excellent examples they have set in their own districts. But in a much wider sense they accept it on behalf of all the farm families in Alberta—as the most important single industry in the Province.

We join in saying—Congratulations!

Petty Opposition

The Municipal District of Strathcona, which borders Edmonton to the southeast of the city, wants to establish a residential area to accommodate upwards of 20,000 population in a new town site five miles east of the city limits.

The new city would house workers from the new industrial plants in the area which have sprung up along Strathcona's fabulous "Industry Row." The district planning commission has put its stamp of approval on it and the work is now slated to commence early next spring.

Already the reactionary Edmonton Journal has taken exception to the plan. Anything new or progressive for Edmonton, where policy might be decided by public opinion, usually meets with the opposition of the Journal. But in this case the big city daily claims it isn't in favor because the planning commission approved it by secret ballot.

The council of the town of Jasper Place, away on the opposite side of town, have threatened to withdraw from the Edmonton planning commission if the new town on the east side is built.

We believe the mayor and council of Jasper Place have been unduly influenced by uncalled-for opposition of the Journal and if the council of the Municipal District of Strathcona want to foster creation of another Alberta city it should not be dissuaded by such opposition.

Anyway, $72,000 has already been invested to purchase the land and it doesn't seem likely at this stage that the march of progress will be halted by the Journal or Jasper Place.

Increased Mechanization

It is estimated that there is 15 per cent less labor on Canadian farms now than before the war. Because of this, farmers have had to turn to the greater use of labor-saving equipment and increased mechanization. Within the past 10 years the amount of equipment on Canadian farms has nearly doubled. There are now 2½ times as many tractors in western Canada and 4 times as many in eastern Canada as there were 10 years ago. There is approximately one tractor per farm in the West and one tractor per 2½ farms in the East. Combines have increased by 4½ times in the West and 11½ times in the East. The number of motor trucks used by farmers has almost doubled in the past 10 years.

The Bible Today

I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel by the rivers, and in all the inhabited places of the country.—Ezekiel 34:13

Will The West Hold Together?

The Western powers have presented a solid front to the countries behind the Iron Curtain by formation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. This is largely a mutual defence league but it is also a buttress in the cold war and the war of ideas.

What must sound very strange to the regimented peoples within the Communist bloc are the incessant murmurs of disagreement among the Western Nations. The U.S.A. won't recognize Red China while Britain does. The French people are not wholeheartedly in agreement with the other nations of the free world over what to do with Germany. Canada is critical of trade restrictions imposed by the United States. The British don't like our price for wheat and seek to purchase supplies elsewhere.

In short, the free nations of the world have their disagreements but Molenkov and Co. should not make the mistake of thinking the West is breaking up in its alliances. This is just the "tuning up" of the various instruments that together will produce a solid symphony of strength and purpose in any future war, cold or hot.

The Price Of Wheat

Says the Calgary Herald: "Somehow or another the export price (of wheat) will have to come down. It is foolish to suppose that it can be maintained at a higher dollar level now than it was in the wheat-hungry years immediately following the war... neither the Wheat Board nor anybody else can, in the long run, keep the price of wheat above its proper economic level."

It may be presumed that the proper economic price level of wheat, in the opinion of the Calgary Herald, is the price as determined by the open speculative market. The price on such a market is determined mainly by speculation. Prof. James E. Boyle of Cornell University in testifying before a Canadian royal commission on grain marketing in favor of a speculative market in 1931, said: "It is my conviction that a hedging market must be made up of at least 50 per cent pure speculation."

At the present time the United States has a surplus of wheat available for export and carryover of about one billion bushels. The Canadian supplies will probably be somewhat below that figure. If the open market had control of grain selling, there certainly would be no inducement for any speculators to buy wheat for a rise in price. In that event the price of wheat may well slump to well under $1.00 a bushel. Would the Calgary Herald consider such to be "a proper economic level"?

Slow-Pokes As Bad As Fast-Pokes

From The Calgary Albertan

Alberta's conscientious and aggressive highways minister, Mr. Gordon Taylor, has said that he will recommend legislation establishing "minimum speeds" on certain highways under certain conditions. It would be intended to prevent farm equipment and other slow-moving vehicles from tying up traffic on the main highways.

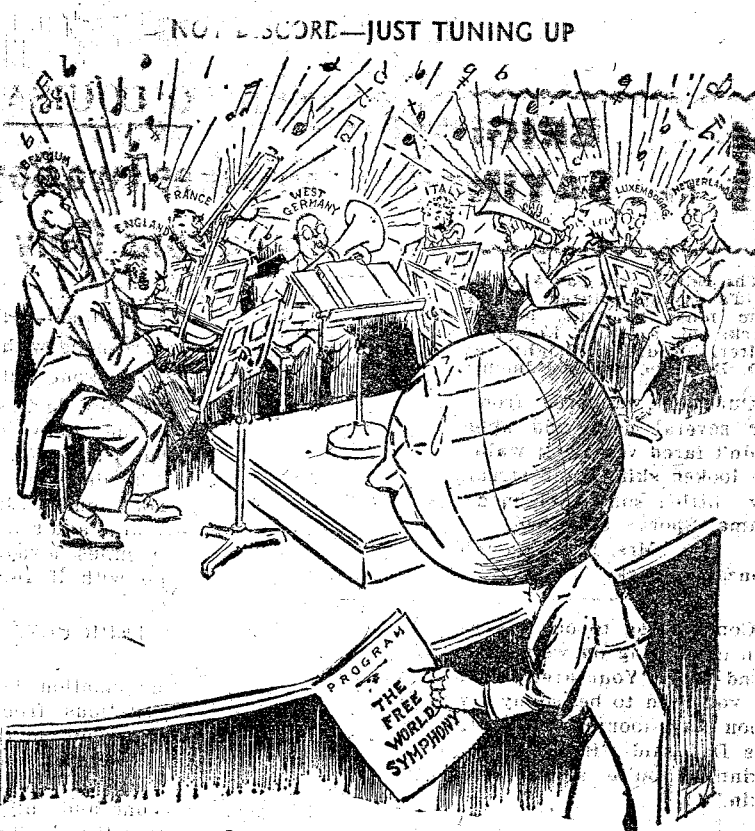

This is good news.

While he is at it, Mr. Taylor should do a thorough job. The worst offenders are not farmers moving machinery, for these people know enough to stay well off at the side of the road. The trouble and danger come from those thoughtless folk, usually in old cars and with time on their hands, who hug the inside lane and creep merrily along oblivious of the traffic tie-up behind them.

Granted, people should be able to drive slow enough to enjoy their trip, slow enough to enjoy the scenery and study the crops. But the great majority of motorists use the highways to go somewhere, and they want to and are entitled to travel at 55 or 60 instead of 24 to 35.

On all the two-lane highways which can't accommodate both the slow driver and the fast driver, there ought to be minimum as well as maximum speed limits. The slow poke is just as much a menace as the speeder.

Some day, perhaps, Alberta will be able to afford special roads or special lanes for the motorist just out for a stroll.

SOMEONE'S IDEA OF FUN

Here's the ultimate in asinine behavior of full-grown adult people!

They were installing some new phones, on the barbed-wire circuit that services our district. The phone rang and a voice asked: "Do you have any dry cows?" Taken by surprise I answered: "How should I know if we've any dry cows. Why, we've seventy-five of them in the pasture. There might be some dry ones."

"Well, if they're dry," replied the voice, "you'd better go water them!"

There was an embarrassed silence before I slammed down the receiver.

CALLING JACK GOODWIN

Can you help me trace some old friends of mine, Mr. or Mrs. Jack Goodwin. They emigrated to Canada from England in April, 1912. Mrs. Goodwin was formerly Nellie Ogden, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ogden. They may now be living in the United States. They were former residents of Heywood, Lancashire. They had four children, three of them named Annie, Jack and Alfred. I remember their former Ontario address at Toronto and this may be a lead in helping to identify them.

FARM ANIMALS AT PARK
Saint John Telegraph-Journal

Some visitors to the zoo at Rockwood Park may be surprised to see a heifer, a pony, and some ordinary sheep, enclosed in their own separate corrals, alongside the wild animals of the forest.

One doesn't expect to see barnyard animals at a zoo, and it might seem they'd be of little interest in the environment of the deer and raccoon, the bear and porcupine, the beaver and other native animals which are always a novelty to children and grown-ups alike.

But then the second thought occurs—though to some it may seem inconceivable—that there are probably hundreds of youngsters right in the city of Saint John who have never seen a lamb, a cow or a horse, close up.

Subscribers who pay up this month are entitled to enjoy the fall days without further molestation.

THOSE CURLERS!

Would you please publish the poem taken from the "Watson Sask." "Witness"—It is entitled "Wild Man Returns," but I'd like to dedicate it as "An Ode to the Bewhiskered! Sangudo! Curlers!" Who's the stranger, mother dear? Look, he knows us—ain't he queer? Hush, my own, don't talk so wild. He's your father, dearest child. He's my father? Not at all, Father died away last fall. Father didn't die, you dab, Father joined the curling club. But they've closed the club, so he has no place to go, you see—No place left for him to roam—That is why he's coming home—Kiss him—he won't bite you, child. All them curling guys look wild.

LETTER TO LOUISA

Girl Likes Two Boys But Accepts Invitations Only From Home-Towner

Dear Louisa:

I have gone out with Bob several times. We used to correspond with each other. Now I have gone out with El who lives in my home-town. Bob has asked me go with him several times, but I say "No," because El wouldn't like that. Lately I haven't gone out with either. Both boys are kind and sensible. Bob lives 20 miles away. Which would you go with if you were in my position?

WORRIED TERRIBLY.

Answer:

If I were in your situation I'd certainly accept invitations from any decent, respectable young man, who took enough interest in me to date me. That is, until I was sure I had met the one and only and was confident that the ringing of wedding bells wasn't far away.

The reason a lot of young married couples don't get along too well is because the girl snapped up the first specimen who appeared in pants, or the boy mistook infatuation for true love and fell for the first pretty thing he saw dressed up in a skirt. Living in a small town as you do you must realize that your chances of finding the right man for you are slim. That is, unless you take your opportunities as they come to widen your circle of friends and meet other young people.

So, by all means, let Bob wine and dine you and don't restrict your attentions to only one boy.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

I am in love with a boy who is 16. I'm 13, although I look like 15 or 16. He is kind and very sensible. I have gone out with him twice. Now he doesn't pay much attention to me. How do you think I can make him pay more attention to me without him getting wise?

TEEN-AGER.

Answer:

At 13 years of age you are a very foolish girl to worry about your imagined boy friend not giving you attention. In the first place, whereas three years difference to a couple in their late 20's makes no difference, to you two in your teens it's a lot of difference.

Your young man, taken at first by your older grown-up appearance has now apparently lost interest.

At 16 he's more likely to prefer the company of girls his own age.

You are just a passing fancy to him and whether you realize it or not that's all he is to you. So for pity's sake forget about him and circulate among other boys and girls in your own age group and school grades.

By the time you're 20 you'll probably have let 10 boy friends like him slip through your fingers and this momentary infatuation won't even be a memory.

Belzil Family Win ...

The partnership remained in effect for six years, until Ernest Belzil married a girl from St. Joseph, Quebec, in 1914.

Mr. Belzil recalls that he and his brother had only three head of horses between them at the time. This mathematical problem was solved by each taking one horse and exchanging the third horse back and forth as needed.

Over the years, Mr. Belzil gradually added to the small homestead, until it reached its present size, of five quarter sections.

The Belzils have found one of the best aids to successful farming is a definite plan for the future. With the assistance of the district agriculturalist in St. Paul, they have formulated a 10-year cropping program and improvement campaign.

This program, now in its second year, sets out the crop sequence and summarizes the proposed major activities for each year. For example, a year's program may state that No. 1 field be summerfallowed, the ditches cleared and the fence widened. It may propose also that a new winter corral for the young bulls should be completed, fill work started on a small bog, and several buildings painted.

So far, the Belzils have been able to complete each year's assignments with little difficulty, and have found that through a long range program the more difficult tasks can be spread out over a period of years. It has shown that, with an objective, a greater amount of farm work can be completed each year.

Mr. Belzil is also carrying out a long range program for improving his cattle. His first step was taken several years ago when he purchased a fine purebred bull from a ranch near Stavely. The cows produced by breeding his own purebred stock with the bull will now be bred with a new $5,500 bull purchased recently from the same ranch.

The rambling frame house of the Belzils was constructed soon after Mr. Belzil was married. In the farm office are found accurate records of the farm and its progress. Most bills are paid by cheque and records are kept of all income and expenditure. On the walls are two pictures of Mr. Belzil's prize bulls and a map which was used during the 10 years which Mr. Belzil served on the municipal council.

A short distance north of the house is the smaller home of Fernand and his family. Fernand is in partnership with his father and is the most active farmer of the Belzil children.

The Belzil farmstead is well laid out for convenience and appearance. The cattle barn and corrals are located north of the farmyard; the shops, garages and storage sheds to the east; and a bunkhouse to the south. A short distance from the storage sheds are the pig pens, where about 85 Yorkshire pigs are raised.

To successfully operate the farm, the Belzils have one hired man and the necessary heavy equipment. This includes two tractors with hydraulic loader, a binder, plows, manure spreader, dump wagons, a one-ton truck, double disc drill, and other machinery. With this equipment, spring work can be done in two weeks, a great help in a district where quick seeding is an asset.

Mr. Belzil is the head organizer and a member of the board of Cork Roman Catholic Church. He received special benediction from the late Most Reverend H. J. O'Leary, Archbishop of Edmonton, for his church work, and was made an honorary life president of the Cork church by grateful neighbors.

He also served as councillor of Champlain municipality from 1937 to 1940 when it was dissolved and later served on the new Council. He was reeve during 1946-47 but resigned because of poor health.

Mr. Belzil has also served as trustee at Belzil school, director of an advisory board for the Veteran's Land Act, and was the first president of the local service board.

Mrs. Belzil is also an active member of the Cork church and is a member of the Owlseye Ladies' Club.

Fernand organized the Market Road-Mutual Telephone Company and now serves as president. He also is a director of the first bull sale to be held this autumn by the St. Paul Agricultural Society; a member of St. Paul Chamber of Commerce; and is a director of the agricultural society.

CNR Train Schedule Changes Announced

A number of changes in Canadian National Railways train service in the West were announced by W. G. Connolly, passenger traffic manager for the system's western region. The changes, effective Sept. 27, will coincide with the return from daylight to standard time for the fall and winter seasons.

All mainline trains, including the Continental Limited, from Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto to Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Vancouver and return, will operate on present schedules. However, in those cities where daylight time has been in effect trains will arrive and depart one hour earlier with the advent of standard time.

The following changes have been made in Alberta service: trains running between Edmonton, Camrose and Mirror will operate tri-weekly instead of five times a week. Trains will leave Edmonton on Monday, Wednesday and Friday returning Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Service between Camrose and Vegreville has been increased to tri-weekly, with trains on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Train 335 will leave Calgary for Ardley on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, however on the return trip, the train will travel to Delburne on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and from Delburne to Calgary on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

HEALTH UNIT NOTES

Good Food Habits Essential To Happy, Healthy Growth

Simple well-cooked meals served at regular times, in pleasant surroundings will go far toward encouraging good food habits in children. The most important consideration is to see that children eat a variety of foods and do not fill up on one food they like best.

When introducing new food to a baby, present it at the beginning of the meal, when the baby is hungry, and give only small amount. If the baby appears not to like it do not act concerned or scold him, but give him another small bite in a moment. If he persistently refuses, and it is a food that is very desirable, you may find that he will take it if you mix it with some other food to which he is accustomed. Sometimes it is a good idea to wait several days before trying the new food a second time.

Parents' anxiety about their children's eating is frequently the cause of poor food habits. Even babies and very young children may refuse to eat, as a means of getting attention. Habitual refusal should always be a sign for talking things over with the doctor. Children's appetites, like those of adults, may vary from day to day, so that occasional lack of appetite should not cause alarm. No attempt should be made to force the child to eat as it is likely to result in an emotional upset, which may have a permanent effect on his attitude toward food. Also when a child who has always had a good appetite refuses to eat, it may mean that the child is not well or is not getting enough rest.

HOURS OF SLEEP

The very young baby sleeps from 20 to 22 hours out of the 24, but gradually the length of time he sleeps grows less, until at six months he is sleeping about 16 or 18 hours.

From the first he should have his longest sleep period at night, for your sake as well as his own. By the time he is nine months old, he should be having 12 unbroken hours of sleep at night. As the amount of sleep your baby needs grows less, you will find that one of his daytime naps becomes shorter. Perhaps before he is eighteen months old he will no longer need two naps a day. Between the ages of two and six years the number of hours of child's sleep gradually decreases from about 13 to 11 hours out of the 24.

Early to bed should be the rule all through childhood. Also, every young child needs a nap during the day. Some children tend to omit the nap earlier than others. The regularity with which you stick to a certain hour for naps, will greatly encourage the continuance of the habit.

The place where your baby sleeps should not be too bright and should be protected from sudden noises and interruptions. However, it will not always be possible for him to sleep where it is completely dark and quiet, so it is advisable not to pull the shades all the way down, not to shut out every bit of noise. The baby should sleep in his own bed when possible. Both he and the mother will sleep better separately, and the baby will not form the habit of having his mother lie down beside him when he goes to bed. A young child also should have a bed to himself. There should be a constant circulation of fresh air in the room in which your baby or young child sleeps. In warm weather all open windows should be well screened against flies and mosquitos. Bed covers should be adapted to the temperature of the room.

October 4 to 10 Fire Prevention Week

Now is the time to start a good habit—fire prevention. Always be on the watch for fire hazards. Your Fire Department has a big job to do in its Fire Inspection Service and training and equipping firemen for adequate fire control.

But you must help. Fire feeds on careless deeds so help eliminate the common causes of fire.

PLEASE—

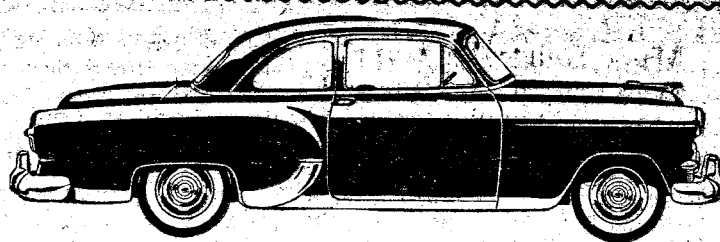

- DO NOT leave matches within the reach of small children.
- DO NOT smoke in bed or dispose of cigarettes carelessly.
- DO NOT put ashes in a wooden or paper container.
- DO NOT bring gasoline or kerosene into the home.
- DO NOT take chances with faulty electric wiring, faulty chimneys and stove pipes.
- DO NOT allow rubbish to pile up in basement or attic.

REMEMBER — A careful person seldom has a fire; a clean, orderly place seldom burns.

Day School Opens On Beaver Lake Reserve

BEAVER LAKE — September 24 marked a great occasion on the Beaver Lake Indian Reservation, some 150 miles north-east of Edmonton. For the first time in its history the reservation witnessed opening of classes in a school all its own located in the renovated east end of the RC Mission Rectory. Mr. H. N. Woodsworth, Edmonton Superintendent of Indian Affairs had driven all the way from the city especially for the occasion.

At 9:00 o'clock a.m. the school bell, ringing for the first time on the picturesque shore of Beaver Lake, was the signal for the assembly in the class room of the 20 pupils, their parents, the chief and councillors. Superintendent Mr. Woodsworth, the new teacher, Mr. M. C. Auclair, Rev. Fr. C. Chataigner, newly appointed missionary on the reservation, and Rev. Fr. Levert who had supervised the renovation of the Rectory Hall into a class room.

Peter Gladue, a member of the band, acted as chairman. Asking the assembly to arise he officially announced the opening of the meeting by the national anthem, O Canada. Then he invited Fr. Levert to say a short prayer to ask God's blessing on the new school and address a few words to the assembly. Fr. Levert congratulated all members of the band for their spirit of co-operation and expressed the hope that all would continue their efforts to make the new school a real success to the greater benefit of all. Fr. Chataigner then expressed his joy of being once again at the service of the Beaver Lake people and exhorted the parents to spare no effort in their co-operation with the teacher, the Department of Indian Affairs and the Missionary towards the spiritual and intellectual education of their children. Mrs. Auclair also expressed gratitude at the hearty welcome given to her and promised to do her utmost towards the advancement of her pupils. Chief Clement Smallface then rose to thank the Department of Indian Affairs for its aid and also the Catholic priests for their co-operation in the setting up of the school. He expressed his joy at seeing the day when the children of his reservation were given the privilege of having their very own school. Albert Cardinal exhorted the children to also do their share in being very obedient and attentive to the teacher so as to get the greatest benefit possible out of their school days. Mr. Woodsworth exhorted all present to really appreciate the benefit of a sound education and in the name of his department promised that if attendance at school proved to be what should be expected, a brand new two-room school house would be erected within the next year or so.

Then all rose to sing God Save the Queen and the class room was left to the teacher and her pupils.

DISTRICT AGRICULTURIST NOTES

Due to unfavorable fall weather there is considerable tough and damp grain being threshed in this district, so farmers should check their stored grain frequently for grain spoilage. The grain should be checked every two weeks on the surface by thrusting the hand into it here and there to detect heating and also smell the grain to detect foul odors. Carry a small metal rod or pipe and push it into the grain four or five feet and leave it for 10 minutes and then pull it out and test it for warmth on the back of the hand. Tough and damp grain may also become infested with grain-infesting insects which can do great damage to the grain. If insects are detected it may be necessary to fumigate the bin if the infestation is bad.

The cause of most grain storage problems in Western Canada is "tough" grain: grain that remains uniformly dry will not spoil. Therefore, the farmer's first task is to bin grain as dry as possible in a clean, weatherproof, well-ventilated granary. Secondly, the grain should be examined periodically, because leaks, seepage, or condensation may introduce excessive moisture and cause local heating. Thirdly, if heating and insect infestation should develop serious damage may be prevented by transferring the grain to another place in cold weather.

Further information is obtainable at the District Agriculturist Office in Lac la Biche for those who want it.
